

Judith Altrogge studies Sociology and Social and Cultural Anthropology in Freiburg. She has recently started research for her Magister thesis on knowledge systems in the international climate change discourse which she will be composing at the Institute of Sociology. In order to conduct qualitative field research, she will be travelling to Eastern Africa in the summer of 2011.

Areas of special academic interest include

- development and post-development theory
- globalization processes
- the sociological perspective on (scientific) knowledge
- Sub-Saharan Africa
- Central America

Contact: Judith_Altrogge@yahoo.de